TOUGH NEW REGULATIONS NOW GOVERN LAMP & TUBE RECYCLING

So Say YES to WF's SUPER Service

New regulations covering lamp and tube recycling which came into effect in 2004, have significantly moved the goal posts. These Directives make the disposal of all such products other than via the prescribed route virtually impossible. Failure to comply with this new legislation can lead to fines of up to £20,000. The legislation concerned, the European Waste Catalogue (EWC) and the EU Landfill Directive, both now part of UK law and all part of the Waste Electrical and Electronic Equipment (WEEE) directive, has two major consequences.

FINES UP TO £20,000
FOR FAILURE
TO COMPLY

- 1 All the designated products as described below have now been categorised as 'Hazardous'.
- 2 All such waste can ONLY be disposed of in one of 11 designated sites throughout the UK or recycled by an approved organisation.

At a stroke using the local tip or other such sites as a method of disposal becomes illegal even if such waste is mixed with normal material. So whether it's a single item or a large re-lamping project, WF has the answer.

We offer a complete service that:

- Caters for all types of affected lamps and tubes
- Removes all Mercury and Cadmium
- Neutralises all Sodium
- Separates all metal and glass

All you need to do is ring your local WF branch and we do the rest

If you only need to dispose of a few items as you purchase replacements, simply bring the redundant items into the branch.

For larger volumes, we can provide a suitable container for on site storage and when its full simply ring the branch and they'll arrange collection.

In both cases you will be issued with the appropriate Duty of Care forms confirming the quantity and type of products involved.

For the small to medium sized business, we offer a special one price 24 hr collection service. We'll deliver to your site a specially designed container which can hold 150x6' or 450x2' lamps and tubes. The one price includes container rental and delivery, collection and recycling plus full duty of care certification.
